

JEFFREY LEISER
at the piano

New York City

Dear New York City venue

My name is Jeffrey Leiser and I'd like to introduce myself. I am a pianist of 15 years and a composer of film scores. A year ago, I moved to New York City to be with my girlfriend Lindy, who is now my wife!

In the years prior to my move from Los Angeles, I primarily focused on writing film scores and wrote for a small orchestra on my last major project, as well as a small choral ensemble.

I have recently started performing in New York this past year for small audiences (50-150 people), private and public, and have always garnered positive reviews. My network of friends and colleagues grows stronger each month (I performed for 100+ friends / acquaintances recently for my iTunes launch party) and I feel it is time for me to step out into the world at large, entertaining and perhaps enlightening listeners with my eclectic approach.

That said, the proof is in the pudding, as they say, and I would love to play for you and see if we might start a working relationship

You'll find more information in the next pages, including where to listen to some of my music. I very much look forward to your response.

Sincerely,

Jeffrey Leiser

A short biography

Jeffrey Leiser has been playing the piano for 15 years and his music has been enjoyed by hundreds of thousands through the feature films he has composed for.

He grew up in Northern California, then Southern, studying sound editing in Burbank at Video Symphony.

In 2010, he has released over 140 original compositions through iTunes and other vendors nationwide. His music has been featured on California radio and has received positive reviews from top film critics.

His music has been compared to Philip Glass, Debussy, Yann Tiersen and Danny Elfman, though his style is uniquely his own, drawn from personal, deep emotions and fantastical joy at life's possibilities.

In 2009, Jeffrey moved to NYC to pursue music and Lindy Fox, who is now his wife Lindy Leiser. He writes music for film and commercials and performs all around Manhattan. Catch him!

“ His music is of the ages, but all his own. The way a model responds to the camera, he understands the piano and can make it speak in ways always surprising and moving. ”

- Carla Palandrani, owner of Greenwich Village Bistro

“The [Imagination] score is gorgeous, mystical and somehow, even despite the sadness of the story, ever serene.”
Noralil Ryan Fores, Short End Magazine

“A lovely music score by Jeffrey”
Brett Rogers, Frames Per Second Magazine

“Jeffrey turns in a mind-boggling new age music score”
Dennis Schwartz, Ozus' World (top Rotten Tomatoes reviewer)

“A mention must be given to Jeffrey Leiser's outstanding score, the music is beautiful.” Late Film

The other aspect, perhaps even more amazing, is the film's score by co-writer Jeffrey Leiser. It's top-notch aural excitement that any major motion picture could be proud of. In fact, it's maybe in the top three scores I've heard this year. Andrew James, Row Three

The melancholy plot is elevated by bursts of clever animations that creep around every corner along with the sweeping score by Jeffrey Leiser that is so impressive one wonders if there will be an option on the upcoming DVD to isolate the superior music and visuals since they show off the Leisers' considerable talent in their chosen areas.
